How has your program changed from planning to coding to now? Please explain?

Originally I had planned to just use some JLabel's, a JComboBox and some if-else statements but when I started to code the GUI I realised that when I selected something from the JComboBox nothing would end up being displayed.

So I ended up adding an ActionListener in order for the if-else statements to work when I select the correct conversion formula from the JComboBox for the second JLabel to display the text for the correct conversion.
